An Exciting New Chapter in Pluralsight's Evolution

I am thrilled to partner with Vista Equity Partners as we enter this exciting new chapter in Pluralsight's evolution. Vista is a global investment firm with significant resources and institutional knowledge that will open doors and help fuel our growth. Through this partnership with Vista, Pluralsight will be positioned to move faster and be more agile, accelerate our strategic vision and further strengthen our leading market position.

This agreement is validation of the value that Pluralsight provides in developing world-class technologists and technology teams and empowering them to drive the next wave of innovation for their organizations. I'm so proud of all that we've accomplished together at Pluralsight and look forward to our bright future with Vista. You can read my message to our Global Team regarding this milestone below. See press release for important information.

Team,

Today marks the beginning of an exciting new chapter in Pluralsight's evolution. Moments ago, we announced that we've entered into a definitive agreement to be acquired by Vista Equity Partners, a leading global investment firm focused on enterprise software, data and technology-enabled businesses. This agreement will allow us to build upon what we've created together in the years ahead. You can read the press release here.

Over the past 17 years, we have done an incredible job reaching new and larger customers and continuing to innovate in our products and solutions. Our customers recognize the value that we provide in developing world-class technologists and technology teams and empowering them to drive the next wave of innovation for their organizations. I am more confident than ever in the importance of what we deliver to our customers.

Amid a year of challenge and change, our products, our brand and our outstanding team attracted the interest of a highly respected, technology-focused investment firm that has conviction in our strategic vision. The Board and I carefully reviewed the opportunities available to our company, including continuing as a standalone public company. We want to be sure that we are best positioned to continue to grow and innovate, and of course, our Board and executive leadership team must consider our responsibilities to shareholders. Ultimately, we determined that this transaction with Vista is the best path forward.

Vista has a proven track record of helping management teams drive profitable growth. They have pioneered an investment and operating model for market-leading SaaS companies with substantial untapped opportunity ahead of them. And the global Vista ecosystem—over 65 software companies with more than 70,000 employees, serving over 200 million users—provides significant resources and institutional knowledge that will open doors and help fuel our growth. You'll likely recognize some of the companies that Vista has acquired and helped succeed, including Marketo, Jamf, and Ping Identity.

As a private company supported by Vista, Pluralsight will be positioned to move faster and be more agile, accelerate our strategic vision and further strengthen our leading market position. Importantly, Vista and our executive team are committed to our people, business and product strategy and Vista shares our belief in the transformative power of technology and technology skills. One of the many reasons they are excited about Pluralsight is because they and many of their portfolio companies are Skills and Flow customers. We look forward to leveraging their expertise to further improve our operations and performance and deliver deeper, more powerful solutions that help companies adapt and thrive in the digital age. I'm very excited about our future with Vista.

It's important to know that today's announcement is the first step in completing this transaction. For this to happen, we need to satisfy certain conditions, including receiving approval from Pluralsight shareholders. We expect to complete the transaction in the first half of 2021. Until the close, we will continue to operate as usual.

Right now, our top priority is closing out Q4 strong. I know I can count on you to remain focused on supporting our customers, partners, authors and instructors to ensure that we finish 2020 with success and enter 2021 with a running start.

This agreement is a testament to your outstanding work. I'm so proud of all that we've accomplished together. Thank you for your continued commitment to excellence, being a lifelong learner, delivering for our customers and partners, and supporting each other.

I look forward to hearing from you all tomorrow and over the coming weeks.

Aaron
